

Brand Spankin' New Lincoln Park Construction Wants $2.7M

By AJ LaTrace Nov 10, 2014

Here's a single family home in Lincoln Park that's so new, it still has its tags. Just kidding, there's actually no tags anywhere, but this never-before-occupied-home has just hit the market with an ask of $2.7 million. The listing agent describes the five bedroom, five bathroom home as a "magazine-quality new construction", and indeed, the place looks quite nice. The place is loaded with large windows, tall ceilings, contempo finishes, multiple fireplaces and multiple outdoor decks. The exterior may not be much to look at, but the interior reveals a tasteful contemporary space with high-end finishes to match.

Agent: Luke Bakalar of @Properties, 773-432-0200

www.bakhomedevelopment.com

Saved from:
<https://chicago.curbed.com/2014/11/10/10025050/brand-spankin-new-lincoln-park-construction-wants-27m>